

LAKE HARBOR UMC's Harbor Light

Welcoming all...Empowered by Christ...Sent forth to serve

Volume 17.7 July 2017

July falls “in the middle.” It’s the beginning of the second half of the year already! For me, it means weddings. I’m officiating at eight weddings throughout this year, and 3 of them happen in July! That means a lot of details, but it also means meeting with couples who want to be married and talking through what covenant and commitment means.

I always tell couples that I’m not a counselor, and all that I bring is my years of experience in marriage and my sense of marriage as a covenant between two people and God. This year, Ivan and I celebrate 17 years of marriage on July 15, and I’m grateful to God for the blessing of being with us all along the way. I’m grateful for Ivan’s love, faithfulness, generous heart, and patient spirit with me and our children.

Thinking about weddings and covenant brought me back to Genesis – and how God calls us into relationship. It’s good to go back to the beginning in Genesis and remember how God has always been faithful, gracious, and merciful. Even though we are not perfect, God is faithful. Even though our relationships are not without struggle, God’s promise to be with us is vital.

So I invite you to pray. Whether you’re married or single, give thanks to God for the blessings that we find in relationship with others. Offer your prayers to God for your personal struggles, and pray for those you know who are struggling in relationships. And I invite you to pray for those couples who have been or will be married this year.

See you on Sunday,
Pastor Mary

Annual Conference 2017 was a busy and blessed time! Pastor Mary and Diane Thompson were there to represent Lake Harbor UMC. If you have any questions about the conference, please ask them. You can find a great summary of the conference at:

<http://news.michiganumc.org/wp-content/uploads/sites/8/2017/06/MIC-Digest-June-AC-edition-2017.pdf>

Take some time to read about worship, business, teaching, and mission. Be encouraged as we move forward as Michigan United Methodists!

Confirmation Sunday was a great celebration!

Blessings to Skylar Epplett, Ana Ivanov, and Samantha Sroka as they continue to follow Christ!

MY HERO DOESN'T HIDE BEHIND A MASK
HE DOESN'T NEED A CAPE TO FLY
HE'S STRONGER THAN THE OCEAN AND BIGGER THAN THE SKY
HE CAN HEAL THE SICK AND WOUNDED,
HE CAN WALK ACROSS THE SEA
BUT THE MOST AMAZING POWER OF ALL IS HOW HE WATCHES
OVER ME.
THANK YOU, JESUS, FOR BEING MY HERO

July 2, 2017 at 10:00 am: "In the Beginning: Promises, Promises"

Scripture: Genesis 18: 1-15, 21: 1-7

Synopsis: Abraham shows hospitality to three visitors and receives the promise of a son. How do we welcome God in our midst and discover God's promises of life and hope in unexpected ways?

July 9, 2017: "In the Beginning: God Who Sees and Hears"

Scripture: Genesis 21: 8-21

Synopsis: Abraham is the faith father of Jews, Muslims, and Christians. God's cares for and provides for Hagar and Ishmael when they are kicked out. God provides what we need at the right time in the toughest of circumstances.

July 16, 2017: "In the Beginning: Sacrifice"

Scripture: Genesis 22: 1-14

Synopsis: Abraham is "tested" by God in a most incredible way - called to sacrifice the most important thing in his life. When we feel like God is asking us to do the impossible or when we're facing a difficult situation, how do we continue to pray and stay in connection with God?

Parental warning: This is a difficult topic.

Parents may want to read the scripture and watch the video,

<http://media.preachingtoday.com/mini-movies/61979/abraham-sacrifice-of-isaac>, prior to worship.

July 23, 2017: "In the Beginning: Living with Regret"

Scripture: Genesis 25: 19-34

Synopsis: Esau gives up an important part of his identity for the sake of a fleeting feeling. He devalues God's gift in his life and falls to a momentary desire, only to regret it later on. How do we get lost in our desire for instant gratification instead of slowing down and weighing the consequences of our actions?

July 30, 2017: "In the Beginning: But You Don't Understand"

Scripture: Genesis 11: 1-9

Synopsis: How can the confusion produced by people speaking different languages, literally and figuratively, further God's plan for people to be in relationship with Him and each other?

Planning One Year of Sermons: How Have Pastors Planned in the Past?

by Karen Booth

Last month I shared how our worship planning team has gone to many workshops and heard that we should be planning worship a year at a time. We just didn't know where or when to begin, but think we have the right tools and timing to try it at a two-day retreat in September.

Do you own a quiet place suitable for two-day retreat for 12-16 people? Please contact the office if you might be willing to host our group in September.

The Revised Common Lectionary is a strategy that pastors have used in deciding what scripture readings will be read in worship and used in preparing their message each week. It is worth learning a little bit about its history.

The lectionary first appeared in the fourth century as a means of guiding personal scripture reading. It includes four readings for each Sunday and holy day of the year: one each from the Old Testament or Acts, the Psalms, a Gospel, and a New Testament letter or Revelation. Over time, church authorities from several denominations “endorsed” both a common Christian calendar and “common lectionary” where the readings aligned with the church calendar. That means that the readings in the weeks before Christmas (Advent) also lead to Jesus’ birth; the readings before Easter (Lent) are about the last days of Jesus’ life; and the rest of the year covered other parts of the bible. Over the course of a three year cycle (Years A, B, and C), readers would make it through most of the bible. By the 19th and 20th centuries the Common Lectionary was used to guide scripture readings in worship too, but not the actual preaching until 1960-1980’s. It was revised in 1991. You can find out more at https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Revised_Common_Lectionary.

The good news is that Pastors who use the Lectionary as a strategy for planning worship tend to preach from more of the bible, not just the easy parts they like. It helps their staff coordinate music, Sunday School lessons, etc. to go along with the preaching. There are threads that run through most of the readings from week to week that lend themselves to developing message series. For example, we are currently in Year A of the lectionary. This summer’s reading follow Genesis, various Psalms, the Gospel of Matthew, and Paul’s Letter to the Romans. Our summer series, “In the Beginning: (God’s) Family Drama,” draws heavily from the Old Testament readings. Pastor Mary might use the Psalms as inspiration for her prayers or liturgy, but probably not the readings from Matthew and Romans as they follow different stories.

So if pastors already have the Revised Common Lectionary as a strategy for planning worship and there are good reasons for it, why do we think we can do better planning relevant worship by inviting non-pastors into the process?

The bad news is the Lectionary’s strengths are also its limitations. Many pastors, including Pastor Mary, recognize that and don’t follow the lectionary most of the time. In Introducing the Uncommon Lectionary: Opening the Bible to Seekers and Disciples Thomas Bandy (p. 26) explains that “there were good reasons to develop and promote a Common Lectionary” in the early 20th century. There was a Christian majority in North America who knew something about the bible. The mission frontier was “settled.” That was then. This is now. The mission field (culture) has changed. The lectionary still has value, but its strategies aren’t working for people who are spiritually yearning, but alienated from the church. Today we need strategies (p. 46) that move from:

- Predictability to adaptability – we want to experience our God who is relevant today.
- Transferability to contextually – local identity matters more than hearing the same message preached in churches across the U.S.
- Uniformity to identity – there are radical differences in the shared values, beliefs, vision, and mission within our denomination.
- Authority to credibility – we are skeptical about nameless “experts” who don’t know us but select the scripture our pastor(s) use in worship.
- Orthodoxy to Christology - we want to know who Jesus is and why he matters in our time and place, not just the right things to believe about him.

Carole Koch described this as a very “organic” strategy that can grow and adapt as the mission field changes. We whole heartedly agreed. "Organic" is also an apt descriptor as moving to this strategy will likely feel a little messy as we change course a bit.

You are invited to join worship team members on Sunday, July 30 at 10:15 a.m for another session of "Let's Talk." Grab a cup of coffee and a cookie, then move to the classroom across from the Lounge. The team would love to hear your ideas for upcoming message series, find out if you would like to attend a fall planning retreat, have questions, or just want to listen. If you are not interested in participating, but have an idea to contribute, just jot it on a 3" x 5" card and give it to me or one of the worship team members.

Radical Hospitality

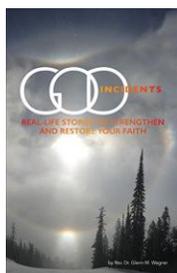

Vacation Bible School is always an opportunity to show hospitality to our community. We meet kids and families who are new to our church. For some, it may be the first time they've been involved. What a blessing to share God's love in a special way!

INTENTIONAL FAITH DEVELOPMENT

We know that Vacation Bible School is a vital part of Christian Education for kids, but it's also a way that adults grow in faith. This year, we learned Bible stories out of I Kings, Luke, and Matthew. We're excited for all of the kids and families who will go to Christian camps this summer. Thank you for your support of our Camp Fund that helps them to experience God in a powerful way! We're praying for our students and leaders who will serve on mission trip in Leech Lake, MN in July. And there's always an opportunity to serve locally: Mission for Area People (MAP), Supper House, Community EnCompass, Kids' Food Basket, and many others!

Don't forget that there are two classes for adults meet each week - Sunday Bible study at 10: 15 a.m. in the Library and Tuesday morning Bible study at 10:00 a.m. in the Lounge. We're studying Genesis as a companion to our summer worship series.

Our Book Club was a great opportunity to hear from Pastor Glenn Wagner about his book God Incidents: Real Life Stories to Strengthen and Restore Your Faith. Even if you couldn't attend, it's a great read!

Be present in worship every Sunday when you're in town, and nurture your spiritual life through personal devotional time and opportunities to serve God and others. If you visit other churches when you're on vacation and notice interesting things, please share them with Pastor Mary!

The Roots wishes you a safe and happy holiday! Remember true freedom comes through Christ! We will see you in August! We will not be meeting in the month of July!

Mission Trip 2017

- Chocolate for Fuel: This one's easy! We give you chocolate, and you enjoy it! Then you fill the container with quarters (or dollars or checks) and help us pay for gas as we travel.

- Please be in prayer for our mission team and all off the people we will encounter along the way! Please hold the community of Leech Lake Reservation in prayer as our team seeks to share the love of Christ with them!
